SAYS RUSSIA'S FUTURE RESTS WITH SPECULATORS

By Associated Press

PETROGRAD July 18— Only two profitable careers are open to Russia's bright young men today and they are speculation and banditry a bearded old civil engineer told the writer while riding on the train from Moscow to Petrograd the other day

This engineer who occupies an important post with the state railway administration said that he earned a salary which is the equivalent of about $1500 a month His son who is a speculator and admittedly not over scrupulous in the way he turns his profits makes fifty times the amount

Our salaries are so low in the state service that no ambitious young man particularly if he is married can reconcile himself to accepting them therefore to win a fortune or live comfortably he must become one of that hated class in Russia and elsewhere a speculator The only other lucrative profession is that of a bandit or hold up man

People who blame the speculators forget that it probably will be they with their quickly secured profits and faculty of taking long chances who will ultimately build up Russia It is not a long cry from speculating in merchandise to taking a chance on building a railroad or developing a mine They are the pioneers breaking away from old Russia traditions and becoming men of business Exactly the same kind of pioneer or speculator in your Wall Street helped build up America

State Woman's Club Head Impresses Need of Women to Assume Full Citizens Duties

By Associated Press

LOUISVILLE Ky July 18—Woman's citizenship is judged by the extent to which she assumes the full duties of good citizenship and promotes efficiency in government Mrs Benjamin Parkes of this city president of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs in a message to club women of Kentucky in the current issue of The Club Woman

Now for in the opinion of Mrs Parkes is properly trained for Citizenship who lacks comprehension of measures in behalf of child welfare education the protection of girls in industry and reasonable solution of the problems involved in the cost of living

There is no better way of learning about the existing practices of government than by working in a legislative body for an urgently needed measure or by following the progress by which that measure is enforced Mrs Parkes states in her message

The foundation of civic life is law enforcement Every community must in the last analysis bear the brunt of law enforcement for itself Mr Justice Holmes has said

The life of the law has not been logic it has been experience the felt necessities of the time the prevalent moral and political theories institutions and public policy avowed or unconscious have had a great deal more to do than the syllogism in determining the rules by which men should be governed

Since this is true in our hands in the weapons of our own deliverance from lawlessness for there is no matter of more theories and public policy greater than our Federation of Women Clubs

All joyous gladness all yearning and all tenderness are premised in the ever recurring processions of little children The dreams of youth with its joys of living with its ideals of love and work its every expression and fostered in our Junior Committee Our Junior members don little more and Happens the potential mothers of tomorrow our pride and our problem

The problem between youth and mother is an idealistic one We must be brought up by the young folk today to get in intimation of what they are seeking to accomplish For the first time in history a majority is being established between equals In the past morality has been based on some form of inequality or inferiority We are adjusting relationships so that both sexes shall be co partners in bringing to pass a better relationship

The tapestry wrought with our ideals is singularly alluring We are realizing that all our activities are part of the great spiritual force and that when we look at them in the large way in spite of all their complications they take on certain simplicity They are interrelated parts of a single whole To my mind this is the great reason for being a club woman It unfolds us see both the multitude of manifestations and the singleness of the central problems God grant us vision

THE $50,000,000 ROAD BOND ISSUE

Central and Eastern Kentucky Good Roads Associations are holding a convention in Lexington today and tomorrow for the purpose of organizing more strongly all good road workers in the state in the fight for the fifty million dollar bond issue. Such a laudable purpose should have the hearty backing of every progressive citizen in the state, more particularly, the support of every citizen of this section which is so dependent upon better roads for development.

This bond issue provides, primarily, for the building and maintaining of a complete system of hard roads in Kentucky in the next five years. Now roads are being built in patches. By means of funds from the bonds all of these shorter roads will be connected. The framers of the bond issue bill have planned it with such care that motor vehicle license revenues and gasoline taxes will be made to carry almost the entire load of retirement of the bonds and maintenance of highways; so that there will be slight, if any change in the present assessment or tax rate.

When the full value of such a measure is understood, it seems incredible that the average citizen should be so indifferent to the matter. This applies particularly to our county and our district where good roads are vital for better development. On the one side we are offered a primary system of road connecting all parts of the state, and built without any increase in taxation. On the other side is Kentucky still mired in mud, with industrial progress, education, and all other forms of development hampered and retarded by existing conditions, and with Kentucky's citizens, the best by birth and tradition that America has sinking deeper and deeper into the mire.

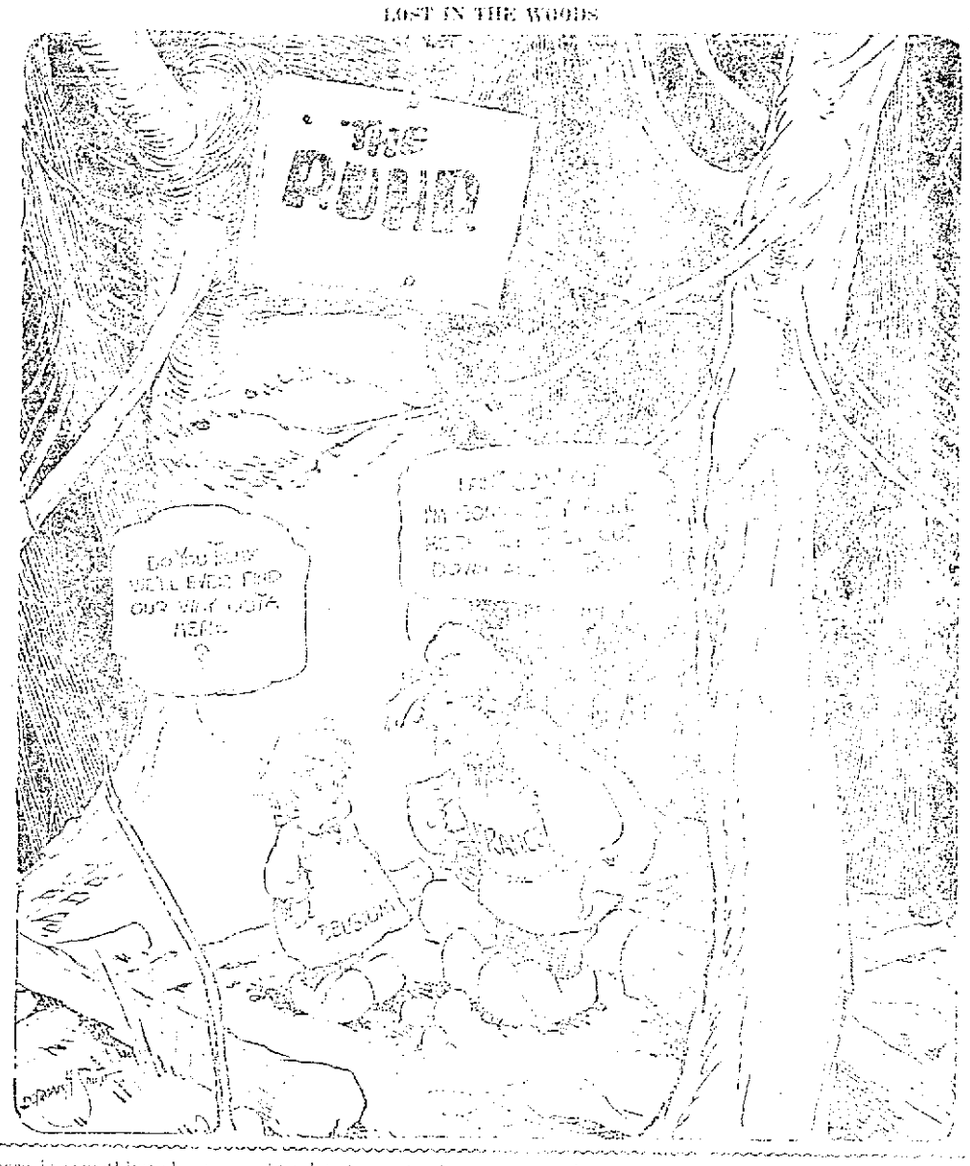
We have but to choose between these alternatives, but, shame on us as average citizens, we have been and still are too indifferent to take any active stand on the matter. The Good Roads Association tells us that all that is needed for the passage and successful carrying out of this bond issue is the intelligent support and cooperation of the mass of Kentuckians. Let us arouse from our lethargy and assure this Association that Southeastern Kentucky, at least, realizes what this bond issue means, and that our section will support it one hundred per cent.

A GOOD ROADS ENTHUSIAST

If he was not that before going to North Carolina, Governor Pearey has returned therefrom a good roads enthusiast. This is not saying that the governor has not all the time seen and known that one of the prime needs of the state, consists in better highways. Tennessee must have them or else accept a place in the march of progress in the rear of other states.

Judging from what has been done in the past, Tennessee has much to learn respecting the matter or road construction. Judging by what has been done in the most of the counties, the thing has been that knowledge and practice in the use of a pick and shovel will all that is needed in the construction of roads. The thought has been that a road that was good in dry weather was good in all sorts of weather.

LOST IN THE WOODS



There is something else to consider, however. It gives me great pleasure to seriously consider. There has been [illegible] invested millions of dollars in the construction of pike roads in Tennessee, are utterly wasted. If that be true, who will say it is not, then it must be conceded that Knox county has been one of the chief of sinners in that respect. Only a few years ago the county made provision for a road fund of half million dollars, the money was raised, of course spent, but what remains to show for it?

It is believed that the people of Tennessee, most of them are alive to the fact that one of our crying needs is better roads, good, properly constructed roads. None believe we can have and pay for good roads with chips and whetstones. It will require money, if we borrow the money it will have to be paid back. Some seem to think that those having automobiles are the chief beneficiaries, and must pay the expenses. Hence comes the tax of the articles required in the use of the automobile.

But that means we will do some experimenting before getting down to actual work. While we are experimenting our neighbor states are acting. While we are thinking, they are doing. They are attracting, we have been repeling. It is pleasing to feel and know we have a governor who is ready, or getting ready to go ahead and do something. The national government is willing to help, but it wants the people of the state to do a part in the helping. Journal and Tribune.

Reports from Germany indicate that millions of people are slowly starving to death. It all came about directly through the decline of the monetary market but the country's unsuccessful war is the cause. A feasible plan for maintaining world peace would be the salvation of nations.

"The stone that was rejected by the builder shall be placed at the head of the column," according to the Scriptures. Stones from Cumberland avenue rejected by the builder are not accepted so high an honor but they are certainly serving a very useful purpose in making fairly good streets through swamps and mudholes.

We are forcefully reminded by the sudden death of Mr. Dickey yesterday that life is a gamble, that the King of Terrors frequently comes unheralded. There is no use of worrying over this condition, since it is inevitable, but a little serious thinking will do no harm.

The acquisition of another large hotel in this county by the Cumberland system further shows our progressiveness in the matter of hotel accommodations.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRESCOTT TO LESLIE PRESCOTT, IN CARE OF THE SECRET DRAWER

I like Ruth Ellington very much, dear Little Margidee.

Out of a clear sky at the dinner party she asked me to go with her the next day on a shopping tour. She wanted me to buy hats.

She was another woman when we were alone.

Talk about the joy of the outdoors! I venture that no man ever had as much fun with a gun in a well stocked of game preserve as a woman does when he's stalking a hat in a spring openings.

"Let's go to that awfully expensive new hat shop," I said to Mrs. Ellington.

"But I can't afford any of their hats," she answered.

"I know it but we can get an idea of all the exclusive modes and ideas and then if we see the other kind we will know how nearly they come up to the original."

"I think I'll get a black hat," said Mrs. Ellington as we entered. The pert young woman who spoke French with an Irish brogue and called us both mademoiselles, soon had us seated in front of the mirror.

While we are waiting for her to return, we saw in the next booth a woman who was surely over forty trying on hats.

The adoring young woman brought her one of ruby hue.

"My, do you suppose that woman is going to buy that hat?" asked Mrs. Ellington. "Someone ought to tell her it looks terrible on her. It shows up every wrinkle and aging defect in her face."

"All right, you do it," I said and we both giggled so loudly that the woman turned toward us.

All of a sudden I knew I was looking upon a tragedy. The woman was plainly trying to find her best youth. She was trying on hats that were becoming to her young heart and not her old head.

The tragic thought must have come to Ruth Ellington, for she said, "Do you know, Mrs. Prescott, I hope my heart will grow old with my face. I don't want my face to wrinkle, my form to shrink, while my heart stays young.

"It pays to be frank to what really youthful clothes to buy and it will really be a favor to us all."

Berton Braley's Daily Poem
A COURTEOUS REMINDER
By Berton Braley

May we call to your attention
What we usually mention
In our verses at this season of the year,
That a visitor unpleasant
Is indubitably present,
That, in other words, the common fly is here?

May we urge you, friend or stranger,
That the fly's a source of danger,
And respectfully remind you that he breezes,
As he flirts upon the breezes,
Multifarious diseases
Which he bears upon his feet and on his wings?

Would you mind if we suggested
That the fly should be arrested,
That he really isn't nice to have about?
That, in fact, if you should spot him,
It's the cradle to swat him,
To eliminate, abolish, lay him out?

We don't wish to be intrusive,
But there's evidence conclusive
That the house-fly is a menace for from small;
So if you will kindly pot him,
Poison, trap him, snatch him, swat him,
It will really be a favor to us all.

DESERT DUSK

Isled here a moment from the rising swell
Of night that brims these canyons like a sea.
I watch the desert's savagery
Levelled like lands that mighty waters quell,
Stern is this touch, yet merciful its spell,
Which can so soothe the wind-tormented sands,
And make a temple of these outcast lands,
Where for a night the peace of God may dwell.

Vain were a Noah! Yet this flood foreshows
End of a life through deserts come to age:
The closing down of eyes that vainly weep;
That gracious respite which the spirit knows,
Summoned from passion's tyranny and rage
To taste the larger dignity of sleep.

Nuckols-Saunders Wedding Last Night

The wedding of Mrs. Nell Sleet Saunders of this city and Paul N. Nuckols of Pineville was solemnized last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Hollingsworth on Edgewood road. The ceremony was performed by Dr. R. E. Douglas, minister of the First Presbyterian Church. The only guests were the Nuckols and Hollingsworth families, Dr. and Mrs. L. L. Robertson and Dr. and Mrs. Douglas. The house was attractively decorated in gladiolus and other summer flowers. An improvised altar decorated in flowers and with tall white torches was arranged in the corner of the room where the ceremony was performed. Mrs. Saunders wore a lovely gray beaded georgette dress.

Immediately after the ceremony, the couple motored to Pineville where they will make their home. Mr. Nuckols is connected with the Jewett, Bigelow and Brooks Coal Co. there. Mrs. Saunders has lived in Middlesboro all of her life and is one of the city's prettiest and most popular young women. Mr. Nuckols also has many friends here.

CAN YOUR OWN VEGETABLES--PEAS

Even the housekeeper who must buy her vegetables will find that she can save money by doing her own canning.

Buy directly from the producer if possible. This insures greater freshness in the vegetables and means a saving in money.

All vegetables must be freshly gathered for successful canning, but peas especially should be canned with the dew still on them. Nor should they be too ripe when picked. The pods should be well filled and firm to the touch and a clear vivid green without the faintest white tinge. No matter how carefully you can, if the vegetable is not as it should be to begin with the canned product will not be satisfactory.

The first step in successful canning is to read the rules and see that all utensils and ingredients are at hand.

Then work as quickly and neatly as possible, but do not try to hurry through. Successful canning takes time and patience.

To Can Peas

Wash pods and shell. Care should be taken not to bruise the peas as this makes them cloudy when canned. Put enough peas to fill one jar in a cheesecloth square and plunge into rapidly boiling water for five minutes. The square should be large enough to hold the peas loosely and the kettle of boiling water big enough easily to cover the peas.

At the end of five minutes of boiling lift from the boiling water and plunge into a large basin or kettle of clear cold water. Remove immediately and dip into the second pan of clear cold water. This cold dip seals the pores of the vegetable and prevents the escape of any juices.

Drain peas and pack in sterilized jars to within one inch from the top of the jar. Add one-half teaspoon salt and one-half teaspoon sugar to a pint can. Fit on tested rubber and fill can to within one-forth inch from top with boiling water.

Half seal: To half seal screw-top jar—tighten cover with thumb and little finger.

To half seal spring-top glass jar—adjust cover and pull over top bail.

Put jars in hot water bath. The water should cover the jars by two inches. The jars will cool the water and boiling will stop. When the water begins to boil again not the time and boil for four hours.

Remove from canner and finish sealing. Turn upside down and cool as quickly as possible. Be careful that a draft does not strike the jars while cooling. When cold store in a dark, cool, dry place.

Pint jars are more economical for the average family to use. A pint of solid peas will serve four persons liberally.

One-half bushel of well filled pods will make about seven pints of solid peas canned.

Drinking Fountain Erected To Living Teacher's Memory

WICHITA FALLS, Tex., July 19.—Miss Kate Haynes may hereafter count herself among the few prominent Americans who have been remembered with lasting memorial while yet alive.

Miss Haynes has done nothing to startle the world into recognition of her importance or comparison with such famous women as Elizabeth Cady Stanton, Florence Nightingale, or Sarah Bernhardt. Yet in her own town of Wichita Falls she has gained so much love and confidence that a beautiful $2,000 drinking fountain has been put up as a monument to her service.

The fountain is on the campus of the Alamo Ward School, where Miss Haynes had been teaching for the last 33 years. She was "primary teacher" for all of Wichita Falls when she first taught the children in the old public school. Today she is primary supervisor for the Alamo ward.

And she's still teaching. The mothers of the little folks who lisp their lessons to her today trudged to school to her in their pinafores 25 and 30 years ago. I a few years she may be teaching the grandchildren of the youngsters who attended her first classes.

MISS KATE HAYNES

Her energy, even now, points to this eventuality.

When an opponent's ball strikes that of a competitor on the fairway, causing the ball to roll a considerable distance and then come to rest in a rough spot that makes it almost impossible to play the ball, what is the proper procedure? The main point in dispute is as to whether the ball can be replaced or must be dropped?

When a player's ball is struck by that of an opponent on the fairway, the player has the right to lift his ball and drop it as near as possible at the place from which it was moved. In such a happening the ball cannot be replaced on the fairway. That is permissible only on the putting green. The ball must be dropped on the fairway.

In a match game between A and B, the second shot of A's is almost 50 yards from the hole. In lining up with the cup, A discovers some loose impediment on the green that he believes may possibly interfere with the roll of his ball. Has A the right to remove such impediment from the putting green even though his ball is not on same?

The player has such a right even though he is not on the green. The rule says the player has such a right irrespective of the position of the player's ball. That covers the above situation.

WHAT'S GOING ON IN THE WORLD

Reports of excellent wheat weather bumper crops and prospect of immunity from ravages of black dust caused the price of wheat to break below the $1 mark for the first time since the beginning of the war in 1914. July wheat sold as low as 99 1-8 and September wheat also went down to this figure a day late.

Throughout the wheat countries production has been reported so great that a large surplus was expected to remain on hand. This caused the sudden drop.

But Eugene Meyer Jr., member of the War Finance Corporation and Georg. J. Mitten president of the Armour Grain Company, declare this attitude is merely over anxiety and pessimism gone rampant. We have only a reasonable carryover of wheat they say which should not cause any such radical drop in prices as occurred the last week.

Yet, from Canada come estimates of a 500,000,000 bushel wheat crop this year as against a production of 300,000,000 bushels last year.

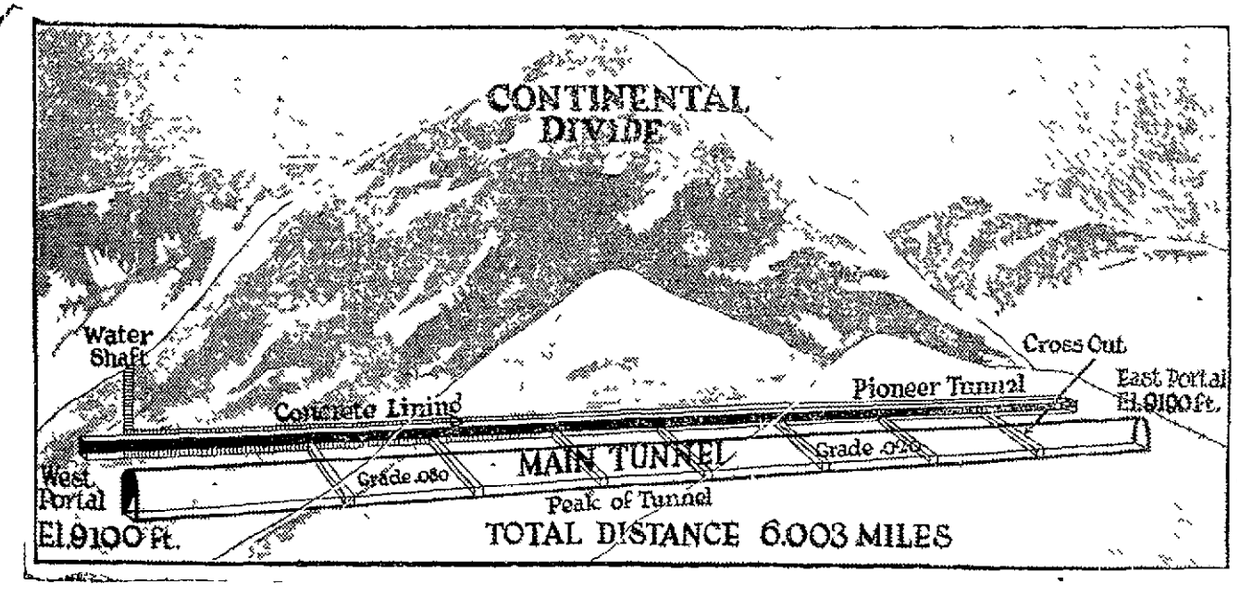
Will Tunnel Thru Continental Divide To Shorten Distance Across Nation



HIGH IN THE ROCKIES CUTTING THROUGH THE CONTINENTAL DIVIDE A TUNNEL SOON WILL BE DRILLED IT WILL SHORTEN THE TRANSCONTINENTAL HAUL FROM NEW YORK TO THE WESTERN COAST BY 176 MILES THIS BIT OF SUPER ENGINEERING IS THE REALIZATION OF A DREAM OF THE LATE DAVID H MOFFAT AND IT WILL BEAR HIS NAME THE ILLUSTRATION SHOWS CLEARLY THE PROBLEM FACING THE ENGINEERS THAT IT IS A GENUINE PROBLEM WILL BE REALIZED WHEN IT IS REMEMBERED THE TUNNEL WILL BE APPROXIMATELY 9100 FEET ABOVE SEA LEVEL

DENVER Colo July 19—The United States Supreme Court has reduced the distance from New York to San Francisco by 176 miles

In a decision upholding the legality of an act creating the Moffat Tunnel commission of Colorado the Supreme court also removed the last legal obstacle to the accomplishment of one of the worlds greatest engineering jobs

As a result work will begin within 10 days on the Moffat Tunnel a bore a little over six miles long through the heart of the Rockies

One of Longest

It will be directly through the Continental Divide from McCoy to Dotsero as it will cut across the extreme northwestern part of Eagle county in the center of the state

The distance between these two points is less than 10 miles as the crow flies But as the railroad runs it is closer to 187 miles 185 miles of tortuous track over and around mountains The tunnel will reduce the hours to minutes the time to be saved between the two points

When completed the Moffat Tunnel will be the longest in the United States

It will be one of the five longest transportation tunnels in the world The Mont Cenis Tunnel Modane to Bardonecchia Italy is six and nineteen hundredths miles in length The St Gotthard Tunnel is nine and three tenths miles long The Hoosac Tunnel is six and three six hundredths miles long and the Simplon Tunnel is twelve and three tenths miles long

In an engineering sense it is believed the Moffat Tunnel will prove of greater importance than any other of the worlds greatest tunnels

Time Shortened

Geological formations which will be met first scientists believe would have been impossible to pierce a few years ago

However the mechanical devices have been invented which are expected to make possible the construction of the tube in less time than was required for the building of the other larger tunnels

Transcontinental trains engineers predict will be running through the Moffat Tunnel within three years Ten years were required for the building of the Mt Cenis Tunnel The St Gotthard took nine years and Alberts was completed in something more than five years and the Simplon Tunnel as begun in 1898 and was finished in 1905

Summarized other facts about the Moffat Tunnel are

Elevation of tunnel eastern portal 9100 feet western portal 9100 feet

Sixteen Feet High

Construction of tunnel lowers railroad tracks vertical distance of 2406 feet

Grades 0 on eastern end and 08 on western end

Size of tunnel 16 feet in width and 24 feet in height

Construction main tunnel through pioneer tunnel first to be driven 12 feet tunnel 8x8 feet and center line 75 feet from main tunnel

Formation probably of granite gneiss and schist Similar to formation in Simplon Tunnel with substituting in especially warm and

Fourth Don't laugh at any one's nervousness during a severe thunderstorm There is a good reason to be nervous Even if one is in a building that is struck the damage is in ninety eight cases out of a hundred confined to ripping out plaster or knocking off slates and rending off any projecting timbers But there are times when the storm clouds descend to earth and unaffectedness the flesh is the heavy and numerous At such times there is danger It is dangerous to be near a chimney or a tree or a flagpole or a metal clothesline

Fifth Stock should not be tied near a wire fence

Sixth There is no particular sense in going to bed Standing on glass or rubber or any good insulator a woolen blanket for example will give one a little more security and a great deal more comfort The probability of a person in an ordinary room being struck is very slight

Seventh If you hear a person who has been struck make every effort to resuscitate him Only rarely does lightning kill outright Mostly people are stunned and all that is needed is a little artificial respiration to restore them to consciousness Of course get a doctor quick

Eighth If you are in a trolley car and a flash comes in and burns the fuses with a roar and a blinding flash set still The danger is over and while you may be frightened you are not likely to be hurt

Ninth If you have a radio better cut it out during a thunder storm The antenna should be grounded direct and all wires as far as possible kept outside

Tenth If your house is provided with good lightning rods you need not have much fear Moreover dwelling houses in city blocks are practically safe

EXPERT ADVISES ON WAY TO ACT DURING THUNDERSTORMS

By Associated Press

MILTON Mass July 18—Get under cover if possible when a hundred storm thrusters If this is not practicable lie down That is the advice which Alexander G McAdie director of the Blue Hill Observatory in this town and professor of meteorology at Harvard University gives in an explanation of the action of lightning prepared for The Associated Press He gives what he describes as ten good rules to help people take care of themselves

In a battle says Professor McAdie a hundred bullets are fired for each soldier killed It is something like this with lightning flashes There are a hundred discharges for every bolt of lightning that has a person Fortunately four of every hundred strokes of lightning about ninety are from cloud to cloud or spill over discharges of moderate electrical energy and are mostly horizontal doing no damage whatever

About ten flashes in a hundred come vertically that is down to earth in a straight line Some flashes come sidewise and seem to be crooked although there are really no flashes zigzag like the teeth of a saw as artists generally depict lightning

The safest straight flashes are those one is to be feared and it is really per son who stands out in the open when such flashes are seen He invites trouble But the invitation is not always accepted

At this time of the year thunderstorms are frequent and there are comparatively few number of fatal accidents One reads in the press dispatches that four men are walking along a New Jersey beach during a thunderstorm There is a flash of lightning one man is killed outright is severely burned and the other stunned

Now there is no protection for a case like this unless one could carry around with him a metallic cover well grounded The first rule is then Do not stay out on a beach or in a field when dark heavy clouds are overhead or coming lowly from the west or south Get under cover if possible If this is not practicable lie down Don't remain standing

Second Do not stand under a tree with final foliage You are forming a part of the line of discharge since the body more particularly the skin of moist is a better conductor than the trunk of the tree More people are killed by lightning in this way than probably any other

Third Don't stand in the doorway or a barn or in a window in proximity to a chimney There are currents of air or winds and the lightning follows to some extent any draft or column of

Puzzling Plays

By Billy Evans

THE PLAY

Interference plays at the plate are troublesome Often the runner and the ball arrives almost at the same time

There is a runner on second the batter singles to right and the runner attempts to score on the hit The catcher blocks the plate and the runner slides into him while the ball is a considerable distance away

Despite efforts to reach the plate he is unable to do so although only a few inches away In the meantime the ball arrives and the catcher touches him

What is the proper ruling

THE INTERPRETATION

The runner should have been declared safe The catcher has no right to block off the runner at the home plate unless he has the ball ready to make a play

THE PLAY

Here is a play that may lose a game or the ball

There is a runner on third and one man out The batsman hits to left center The left and center fielders start after the ball The left fielder makes a play on the ball but as the ball strikes his hands he stumbles and the ball is knocked into the air

The center fielder who is nearby completes the catch by securing the ball before it touches the ground

The runner on third held his base until the ball struck the hands of the left fielder He then started for the plate

The center fielder after completing the catch threw the ball to the third baseman who touched third base and claimed a third out

The contention was raised that the base runner had no right to leave his base until the completion of the catch that the left fielder had merely intercepted the ball

What about this play?

THE INTERPRETATION

The run counts The runner is entitled his base until the fly ball touched the hands of a fielder

The fact that the left fielder did not retain the ball and that the play was completed by the center fielder has no bearing on the play

If a distinction was made as to completion of the catch fielders would be constantly tossing the ball around to keep base runners up in the air

The rule states a base runner who holds his base on a fly ball shall have the right to advance the moment such fly ball touches the hands of a fielder

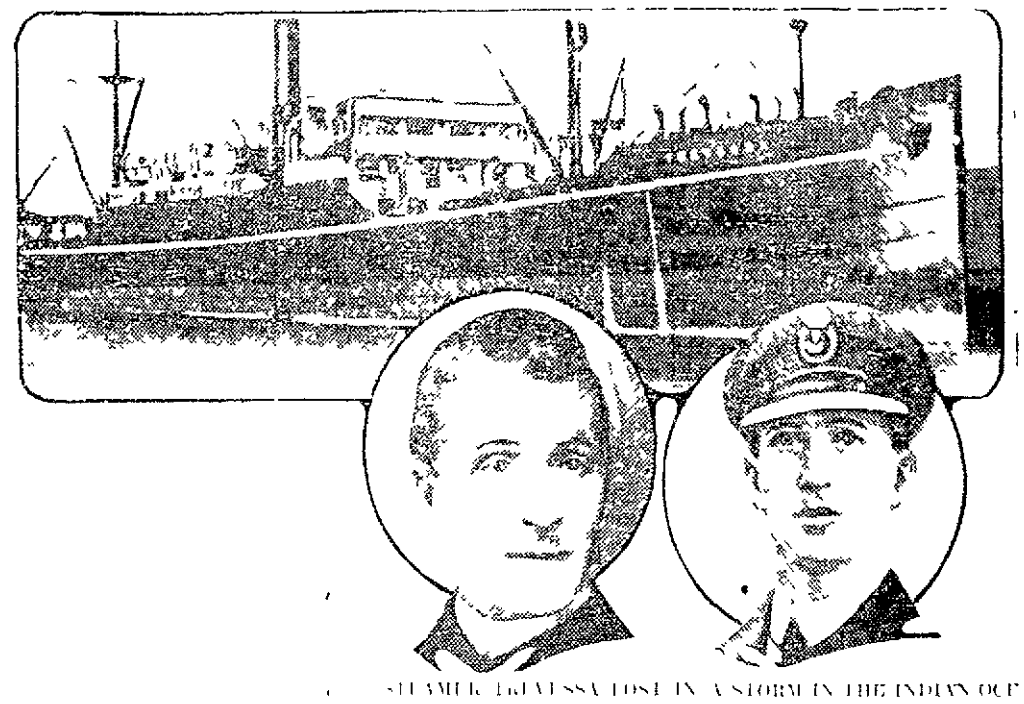
SHIP'S CREW TRAVELS 1900 MILES IN LIFEBOATS BEFORE LANDING!



STEAMER TREVESSA LOST IN A STORM IN THE INDIAN OCEAN AND CAPTAIN CECIL FOSTER, CHIEF OFFICER J. C. STEWART SMITH WHO WITH 2 OTHERS WERE SAVED AFTER MORE THAN THREE WEEKS IN OPEN BOATS. TEN SAILORS DIED DURING THE 1900 MILE TRIP

LONDON July 19 Sixty Pine ...

... ten days in an open boat. Not long ago he had left England a proud and happy man captain of the Trevessa with a crew of 41 officers and men.

But 22 days after the Trevessa sank the sea gave up the dead but the living. A raft loaded with eight half starved men landed at the lonely island of Rodrigez 70 miles north east of the island of Mauritius. It carried Captain Foster and 17 of his men.

For 22 days they had fought with wind and rain, sun and mouth ing waves. They had endured starvation and drinking water and they had left on the sea. Two of their comrades had died during the 1900 mile voyage in an open boat. They had sailed because crazed by thirst they had drunk the salt water of the sea.

The daily ration of the survivors had been: One thimble of cigarette tin of fresh water for breakfast and two cigarettes in the bull of condensed milk. The only thing they could have plenty of was tea.

Three days from their landing on the island Chief Officer J. C. Stewart Smith with 3 more of the crew. They were more dead than alive. For a full day left to the floated into sight to find they were without food. The last drop of water had been drunk. The last biscuit had been eaten. Eight of their comrades had died at sea.

The first thing all of the survivors did was not to demand water or food or bed. They wanted to cable. They wanted to tell their wives and mothers that they were safe. That done they just wanted to drink and drink cold water and then sleep and sleep.

Tomorrow. Why tomorrow those British seamen will be clamoring to know when they can sign on for a new job at sea.

SAVING SEED NOT ADVISED FOR AVERAGE GARDENER

Every year many inquiries come to the College of Agriculture as to the advisability of saving vegetable seed. This practice is not recognized as a good one for the average gardener. However if one has a certain variety of vegetable that is difficult to get seed of and wishes to save his own seed from it the practice may have some merits but just because one raises good tomatoes this season is no reason that seed should be saved for next year.

There are certain requirements for the saving of vegetable seed that the average individual does not care to bother with. Furthermore the commercial seedsman is prepared to handle seed as it should be handled and is in a position to furnish these seeds at a very reasonable price.

In the saving of seed it is essential that the specimens be free from disease be allowed to mature properly and the seeds properly dried and stored in such a way that they will not decay. It is evident that by the time these various requirements are met the saving of vegetable seed out of the home garden is not in case matter. In fact the very best seeds that can be bought for the garden represent the cheapest investment and it is advisable to buy only good standard varieties as long as they can be secured at a reasonable price. This will be found to be much better than trying to save seed from the vegetables of the home garden.

Accident hieroglyphics discovered north of Matabeleland Africa point to a very old civilization which has been lost for centuries.

A collection of 7000 American stamps valued at $125 000 was recently exhibited in London. It belonged to the United States.

Boyd Ford Sends Data On Kiwanis District Convention

The following data on the Kiwanis district convention is taken from a circular letter sent by Boyd Ford, district secretary to the clubs in the district.

District Convention

The International Convention of Kiwanis clubs is held primarily for the official delegates through whom it is possible to broadcast to all the clubs of the International organization the recommendations and legislation brought forward at the annual meeting. Of course it is well-night impossible for this organization to serve us in any other way than as a delegated convention, however, the district convention is for each and every individual Kiwanians of every club within the bounds of the district, provided said club or individua l is in good standing. As set forth in our district by-laws, all members are entitled to the floor of the convention with its privileges except in the election of officers and the selection of the convention city. It is therefore, very fitting that at leas once a year we come together in large numbers where we may disseminate the principles of Kiwanis and absorb as much of the spirit of Kiwanis as it is possible to assimilate.

Our district conventions have grown in proportions, until at the last convention held in Knoxville it gained proportions of unexpected magnitude, and I do not believe that it would be expecting too much to look forward to at least a 50 per cent increase in attendance at the coming convention in Middlesboro, Kentucky, September 27 and 28.

Your district officers are already actively engaged in arranging the program for the coming convention, and through the perfect co-operation of the Middlesboro boys I am in position to assure the Kiwanis clubs of this district that our convention will be as inspirational and beneficial to us as a whole, as was the International convention in Atlanta.

We have already secured some of the most important features of our convention program, and are prepared to say that for the first time in the history of the district we will have the International President Edmund F. Arras with us for the full two days. In addition to our president, we will have an International Trustee and in all likelihood a staff officer. In absolute frankness, I do not see how you can afford to miss it.

We Want Music

I feel that it is nothing but proper that we should make an explanation at this time to the effect that it will be impossible for us to place all the musical organizations of the district on the official program at Middlesboro due entirely to the fact that they are so numerous, and at the same time I want to stress the anxiety of the Program Committee that all glee clubs, quartettes and other musical organizations be in attendance at the coming convention. We would like to have music on every corner, in the hotel lobbies, at the golf and country club, in fact we want music and more music during the play hours of the convention.

I know of no one feature more memorable of a convention than the splendid music rendered by the various organizations in Arlanta.

The LaFollette Band will be present with us, and while they were awfully good a year ago, they claim to have improved both in quality and quantity. The Chattanooga Male Quartette, which bye the way is the best quartet in the world, regardless of any decision to the contrary, will be with us and in their usual good way of doing things will enliven the convention in a great measure as will also the splendid glee club from Nashville, Tenn.

Convention Publicity Committee

The Publicity committee composed entirely of Middlesboro Kiwanians will soon be issuing news items to the various clubs of the district and it is of tremendous importance that you see to it that your local papers play up these items in the most prominent manner possible. You can rest assured that everything these boys say is well founded and that no exaggerated statements will be issued. They are making elaborate preparations for the carrying out of their promises, and will beyond a doubt surpass anything we have ever had in this district in the way of entertainment to a district convention. You will therefore, take seriously any requests they may make of you with the assurance that your club is both sought and appreciated.

"This is a world of extremes. You must either be on your toes or on your back".

Announcement Extraordinary

No doubt the most pleasing announcement that will come to the attention of the delegates and visitors expecting to attend the Middlesboro convention will be the fact that Jules Brazil has been secured by the Middlesboro club as the official song leader and entertainer. Those of us who have come in contact with Jules during the last three International conventions and at the various other meetings, recognize him as an outstanding leader in his line. Those of you who have not been entertained by this peerless artist, can well afford to spend the time and money in going to the convention.
